CLAIM VAST ESTATE IN CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 4.—Since the days of the contest over the estate of "Lucky" Baldwin no legal battle for the determination of inheritance claims has caused more interest than the case involving the vast estate left by Mrs. Arcadia Stearns in the Los Angeles Superior Court. Some of the most noted lawyers of the state, assisted by equally noted legal experts from other states will be arrayed against each other in this remarkable case.

The estate, which is valued at $7,000,000 at one time belonged to Abel

Stearns, one of the most prosperous pioneers of California and was left by him to his widow when he died about forty years ago. Seven years after his death his widow married Colonel R. S. Baker, a retired army officer without property, who died ten years afterward. When Mrs. Baker died more than a year ago it was found that she had left no will. Her relatives, of whom there are thirty-seven in California, made a claim for the estate which had been turned over for administration to the Title Insurance and Trust Company of Los Angeles.

Then the question developed as to who had a just claim upon the estate. There is a provision in the California statutes to the effect that when a widow dies without issue and without leaving a will the property she had obtained from the deceased husband and had not disposed of during her life time, reverts to the heirs of the husband. It is under this provision that the forty or more relatives of Abel Stearns, the founder of the great fortune, are making their claim for the vast estate. Most of the contesting relatives of Stearns are residents of New England, while practically all the contesting relatives of Mrs. Baker are residents of California.

The California statute is quite clear in its phraseology and the decision of the case will probably hinge upon the interpretation of the law concerning the force and meaning of a will under certain conditions. When Stearns died he left a will by which he left to his widow the bulk of his estate to do with it as she saw fit. The will is not disputed by either side, but the Eastern contestants of the estate claim that although the will gave the widow possession and control of the property while she lived, it lost its force when she died without leaving a will. Under these conditions the property, the Eastern contestants claim, must revert to the relatives of the husband, in accordance with the statute of the state.

The history of the estate in question is usually interesting and dates back to the time when California was a possession of Mexico. Abel Stearns was born as the son of a poor farmer at Lunenburg, Mass., in 1738. As a young man he embarked in business near Boston, but failed and went to Mexico, where he prospected and traded. In 1829 he went to California and settled at a mission, now the city of Los Angeles. He started business as a trader and became wealthy. When gold was first found in California, Stearns became interested in placer mining and it was by him that the first shipment of gold from California to the mint at Philadelphia was made.

At the age of forty-six Stearns married the fourteen-year-old daughter of Don Juandini, a wealthy Mexican of good family. When California was made a part of the United States, who was then considered the wealthiest man in the state, was elected a member of the constitutional convention, which framed the constitution of the state. Later he served as a member of the state senate for a number of years. His land holdings were enormous and at one time he owned estates aggregating 1200 square miles in California. He lost a considerable part of his holdings when the United States acquired California, through the refusal of the American government to recognize his title to the lands. Yet, when Stearns died at San Francisco in 1871, he left a vast fortune, including the Laguna ranch, on the southeast border of Los Angeles and comprising about 8000 acres and valued at $700 an acre.

The legal battle which is to begin tomorrow in the Superior Court is attracting a great deal of attention owing to the great value of the estate in question and it is believed that, no matter what the decision of the court may be the defeated side of the contest will consider it worth while to carry the case to the higher courts. In that case the final decision and with it the distribution of the estate may be postponed for a number of years.

HEROIC WOMAN AT DEATH'S DOOR

Tulsa, Ok., Dec. 4.—Fighting off a fatal malady as fiercely as she fought for her husband's liberty, when he was confined in Sing Sing prison, New York, under a death sentence for the murder of millionaire Rice, Mrs. Albert T. Patrick, wife of Albert T. Patrick, oil producer of Tulsa, is critically ill at a local hospital. In this instance her fight for her own life will be different than the fight she waged for the life of her husband. Mrs. Patrick, is doomed while her fight to liberate her husband was successful.

Mrs. Patrick is attended by her physician, Dr. R. S. Wagner, her son, Vincent Francis and his wife, her husband and his daughter, Lucille.

Mrs. Patrick won nation-wide admiration by her loyal devotion to her husband during his long fight for freedom and vindication, ending in his home-coming on Thanksgiving day a year ago. At that time a fatal malady had laid its hold upon Mrs. Patrick which was pronounced by a noted physician of St. Louis to be cancer.

Mrs. Patrick has fought the progress of this disease with the same strength and determination of mind as characterized her fight for her husband, while the latter's search for a cure as been world-wide only to be told that the only cure for cancer was an "early and radical operation," the time for which had passed in his wife's case.

WILLARD GETS BEST OF BATTLE WITH CARL MORRIS

New York, Dec. 3.—After punishing his opponent unmercifully for ten rounds and receiving in return only an irritated face caused by buttings from Morris' head during the clinches one right to the face and not more than half a dozen clean blows, Jess Willard of Oklahoma City was awarded the popular decision over Carl Morris of Sapulpa here Wednesday night. Referee's decisions are not permitted under the laws of the state.

For the Minister's Christmas.

In the December Woman's Home Companion appears a page entitled "Girls' Christmas Secrets." It is a collection of suggestions for Christmas. Following is a suggestion of a present for the minister:

"We desire to give our minister a set of books at Christmas time and raised twenty-five dollars for the purpose. The committee could not decide what books he would like best and finally hit upon an ingenious plan. A handsome leather pocketbook was donated and the money changed into gold pieces was put into it, together with a list of the names of the donors. Then at an evening social the pocketbook was publicly presented to the minister, the spokesman stating that we desired him to make his own selection of books."

We would be pleased indeed to follow the advice about doing Christmas shopping early, if we only had anything to shop with. It usually takes a little cash for one of these expeditions.

Those who have had to travel over the roads of Pontotoc county since the present rainy spell set in will probably become strong advocates of the good roads movement. They have by this time had enough of the other sort to last them awhile.

Mrs. Pankhurst maintained a very lamb-like demeanor while lecturing to the suffragists of America, but her wild breaks in England had so thoroughly advertised her that she was able to rake up $20,000 of American coin to take home with her as sinews of the war that is still going merrily on in England.

The suffragists in session at Washington are slightly peeved because President Wilson ignored them in his message to congress. They would have preferred a few slaps to the eloquent silence by which he conveyed the idea that he did not consider the suffrage question of prime importance at this time. No doubt the president very properly regards this as a state matter and not one demanding the action of congress.

Fort Worth is preparing to build two or three more interurban roads, thus making that hustling place an interurban center of importance. One thing about Fort Worth there is little wind in propositions it undertakes. With Dallas close at hand Fort Worth would today be little more than a whistling station had its early settlers not been possessed of unlimited nerve that made the city a railroad center. Fort Worth is a town that does things.

The Sulphur Post calls the News down because in a recent issue we stated that the receptive candidate for governor would not get very far in the running. The Post contends that in this instance the office should seek the man rather than the reverse. Perhaps the theory is all right, but it is very well to remember that Miles Standish made little headway as a receptive candidate for the hand of Priscilla, even though he entrusted the mission to the scholarly and eloquent John Alden. It was only when John spoke for himself that any progress was made.

Politeness to all classes always pays in the long run. In fact, the wheel of fortune plays so many tricks on the human race that there is never any telling who of the crowd under the bottom today will be on top tomorrow. A number of years ago the American ambassador at Paris snubbed Wm. H. Taft simply because he had not at that time figured much in the world. Not many years later Taft came to the presidential chair and it goes with.

out saying that a vacancy was seen declared in the embassy and the pompous occupant relegated to oblivion. Naturally Taft was not going to put himself out any for a man of that fellow's stamp. In fact, it would always be well to remember that the repulsive looking caterpillar of today may be the beautiful butterfly of tomorrow, flying over the heads of those at whose feet he lately crawled.

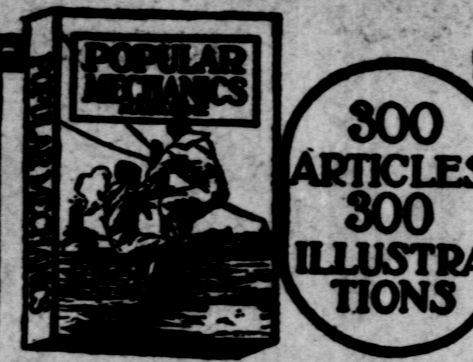

It is only about three months until the primary is held to nominate city commissioners. It is now up to the better element of the city to get together and decide on a good strong ticket.

RED CROSS SEALS NOW BEING SOLD

Oklahoma City, Dec. 3.—"Thousands of Dollars as Oklahoma's Christmas Gift to the Anti-Tuberculosis Cause."

This is the slogan of the state's association for the prevention of tuberculosis, a branch of the National Association. And as in the past years the red cross seal will be the medium whereby each Oklahoman will be able to help.

Thousands of red-cross seals are being hurried to all parts of Oklahoma, from the office of R. H. Riley, executive secretary of the state organization, and assistance in the distribution has already been arranged in many quarters through correspondence by Doctor Riley, Dr. C. R. Day, president, and Prof. L. A. Turley, of Oklahoma university, vice president. The club women of Oklahoma, first of all, are assisting in campaign-plans. Drug gists, bankers, store-keepers generally, and fraternal orders are prepared to help, this year, as in years past.

State headquarters for the association are 333 Mercantile building, Oklahoma City. The red-cross seals are furnished by the National association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. The campaign is not only state but nation wide. The fund-raising work lasts one month, the association having the campaign in hand believing Christmas to be the fitting time for request of the well to aid the sick. The seal sale will close January first.

Red-cross seals sell for one cent each. The presence of them on Christmas packages, letters and cards is not unfamiliar to Oklahoma people, for the tuberculosis prevention campaign has been a Christmas affair in years before. There is but one limit to the presence of red-cross seals—they may not be placed on the address side of a mailable envelope. Government rule prevented this, after the first year's campaign, so any purchasers of seals that year failed to put both the red cross and the government stamps on their Christmas envelopes. The postal department gave permission for the use of the reverse side.

Through the arrangements of those who are aiding the state committee in the distribution, red-cross seals this year will be obtainable in almost any place visited by the Christmas shopper throughout Oklahoma. The work of selling, as well as the sale space, is a donation.

"Old Probs" 75 Years Old.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3.—Cleveland Abbe, the noted meteorologist, familiarly known as "Old Probs", celebrated the 75th anniversary of his birth today in the circle of his family and friends. The fact that for more than forty years, or ever since he became connected with the meteorological bureau of the government, he has been the most abused man in the country, has evidently had no depressing effect upon his enjoyment of life and of a happy old age. Mr. Abbe was a mathematician, astronomer, surveyor and meteorologist of note before he became connected with the government service, but his popular fame rests principally upon the fact that the idea of issuing daily weather maps and weather reports covering the North American continent, originated with him. He was born in New York City and was educated at the college of the City of New York, the University of Michigan and Harvard University, receiving many degrees from A. B. to LL. D. In 1860 he became assistant to Dr. B. A. Gould, of the United States Coast Survey. Four years later he became assistant at the Imperial Observatory, Poulkova, near St. Petersburg, Russia, and two years later assistant at the United States Naval Observatory. In 1868 he became director of the Cincinnati Observatory, where he established a system of daily weather maps of the United States, with a forecast of the weather for Cincinnati. His plan was later adopted by the United States government and in 1871 in the Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture. Dr. Abbe is a member of a large number of learned societies and has been awarded honorary degrees by many colleges and universities in the United States, in Canada and in various countries of Europe. He has accompanied many scientific expeditions, acted as delegate to various scientific conferences and has been one of the most active factors in distributing knowledge of meteorology by lectures and books.

Attorney Melvin Cornish and Col. Johnson of McAlester were in the city on business matters today. Col. Johnson is one of the builders of the Katy main line through eastern Indian Territory in the early days and was also one of the men who founded Denison. He has lived where McAlester now stands for the past forty years.

New York, Dec. 4.—The purring aristocracy of the nation met today at the Grand Central Palace in friendly competition for several thousand dollars in prizes. The event is the fourth annual championship cat show given under the auspices of the Empire Poultry Association. It called together hundreds of fancy bred felines, divided into two groups, the long haired and the short haired varieties. According to the officials of the exhibition the cat fancy is growing in importance each year and very many of the best living cats are owned in the United States. It has been found that breeding high pedigreed cats is a paying industry. The highest class specimens are readily disposed of at large prices and there is a continual call for high class cats.

DURANT FOOTBALL TEAM GIVEN A BANQUET

Durant, Okla., Dec. 4.—The president and athletic committee of the Southeastern State normal gave a banquet to the football team, the champions of the Oklahoma normals, Monday night. The banquet was an elaborate affair and several distinguished speakers were present and toasted the winners.

After the banquet, Hon. W. A. Durant presented for the athletic committee, the sweaters with a monogram to all the players who took part in the Thanksgiving game.

The following received the letter: W. N. Chitwood, captain; Alexander Bateman, Guy Dickerson, Elmer Early, Carl Maxey, William Durant, Oscar Palmer, Grady Wann, Rudolph Helbach, Carl Helbach, Waller Johnson, Grady Johnson, Floyd Hagood, Shawnee Brown.

Alexander Bateman was elected to captain the team in 1914. He played fullback this year and was one of the best on the team. The prospects are bright for a winning team next year for only two of the team are lost by graduation.

A Way to Clean Windows.

In the December Woman's Home Companion appears a department entitled "The Exchange"—a department filled with practical household suggestions. An Iowa woman tells as follows, her idea as to the best way to clean windows:

"There are so many best way to clean windows that one hesitates to offer her method unless very sure it is the way. Three or four ounces of emery flour in a heavy canvas sack about six inches square will clean and polish windows with greater ease than anything else I know. Simply rub the bag over the window. It also removes streaks from any glass."

Spineless.

"Yes," said Mrs. Twickembury, "you seldom see Mr. Twickembury without a cigar in his mouth. He's a most inveterate smoker."—The Christian Register.

POLITICAL SCANDAL DEVELOPS IN MISSISSIPPI

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 3.—Mississippi's complicated political situation was further entangled today by the arrest at Vicksburg of the state Lieutenant governor, Theodore Bilbo, and one of its most active state senators, G. W. Hobbs. They are charged in indictments with receiving $200 and agreeing to receive $2,000 more to use their votes and their influence in the next legislature for passage of a bill creating a new county in the Delta. Hobbs was arrested at Jackson and Bilbo surrendered at Vicksburg and each immediately gave bond for $5,000.

After Bilbo gave bond at Vicksburg today he gave out a statement using strong terms against his political enemies and referred to Governor Earl Brewer as the "dollar hearted dummy"

When this statement was received here Governor Brewer said he had no "parley to make with any person indicted in the criminal court. Just let the facts speak for themselves."

All Blood Disorders Quickly Driven Away

Astonishing Results With the Greatest Blood Purifier Ever Discovered.

Strength, Power, Accomplishment are all Typified in S. S. S.

Some blood disorders become deeply rooted in the glands and tissues, and the mistake is made of resorting to drastic drugs. These only aggravate by causing other and worse troubles. A host of people know this to be true. They know from painful experience.

To get right down into where the blood is vitiated requires S. S. S. the greatest blood purifier ever discovered.

This remarkable remedy contains one ingredient, the active purpose of which is to stimulate the tissues to the healthy selection of its own essential nutriment and the medicinal elements of this matchless blood purifier are just as essential to well balanced health as the nutritious elements of the meats, grains, fats and sugars of our daily food.

Not only this, but if from the presence of some disturbing poison there is a local or general interference of nutrition to cause boils, carbuncles, abscesses and kindred troubles, S. S. S. so directs the local cells that this poison is rejected and eliminated from their presence.

Then, too, S. S. S. has such specific stimulation on these local cells as to preserve their mutual welfare and a proper relative assistance to each other.

In a very brief time S. S. S. has the reconstructive process so under control that remarkable changes are observed. All eruptive places heal, mysterious pains and aches have disappeared, and from head to foot there is a conscious sensation of renewed health.

From the fact that S. S. S. is purely a botanical preparation, it is accepted by the weakest stomach and has great tonic influence. Not one drop of drugs or minerals is used in its preparation. Ask for S. S. S. and insist upon having it. And if you desire skillful advice upon any matter concerning the blood and skin write to The Swift Specific Co., 205 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Do not allow some zealous clerk to lull you into the atmosphere of eloquence over something "Just as good" as S. S. S. Beware of all counterfeits.

GOSSIP AROUND NATIONAL CAPITAL

By C. H. Tavenner.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The president was weary the other morning when he met the Washington newspaper correspondents in the regular weekly meeting he holds with them. The lines on his face showed that the responsibilities of his office are weighing on him. He was pallid, tired. His answers to questions lacked the play of humor that characterized his informal utterances when he first entered the white house.

He knew in advance the questions that would spring first. Mexico. It has been the theme of these White House meetings for months. And the questions were sanguinary, warlike.

Had Huerta sent to the Powers a note of defiance of the United States? Had Lind prepared to break off all diplomatic relations? War! War! How soon? That was the unspoken, but apparent, eagerness behind most of the questions.

The president answered all patiently. He knew of no note. Lind is merely the medium for communication—he is not laying down ultimatums. But the president by his manner showed he realized the futility of trying to impress upon some of these news writers the necessity for moderation in their articles dealing with the Mexican question.

Yet he did not terminate the interview without making the trial—his usual trial. Because of the White House custom I am not permitted to quote his exact words. But he gave the reporters to understand that the newspapers are making it very hard for the administration to deal with Mexico. The sensational, jingoistic headlines not only excite the American people and appeal to the worst side of their nature, but the distortions and the surmises of the reporters, raw boys some of them, and the pure "war fakes" are telegraphed promptly to Mexico to create further excitement and a little more hatred in an already excited country.

It is a pity that this is true—that newspaper owners will assist the spread of inflammatory rumor and guess. It is not usually the fault of the reporter. His writing reflects the wish of his employer. And so, to get the "good story" he draws foundationless conclusions, he snatches a straw and with it predicts the tempest, or he resorts to that contemptible thing, the out-and-out fake.

Happily—I almost wrote unhappily—there will be no war unless the American people desire war. It is good that the people have this freedom of choice. But the people as a crowd are sometimes easily excited, yielding to war hysteria. As Champ Clark said the other day, the United States has been the aggressor in getting into every one of its foreign wars. And no one knows better than the president the effect in mob psychology of this continual, hypnotic repetition of the tocsin of war with Mexico. It puts the nation into a frame of mind ready to be aroused to fury by some act that might otherwise result merely in a diplomatic incident.

Do those who are writing news that makes the president's task difficult, do those who own the newspapers which print these articles, know what war means? Aside from the fact that it would set back for years the growing movement for "the new freedom" aside from the wound war would give to the nation's ideals, aside from the cost in money, war is a terrible curse to a nation.

Speaker Clark said that an invasion of Mexico would cost 25,000 American lives—American boys' lives, for wars are fought by boys. One of the 25,000 might be your boy, reader, or your sister's boy or your daughter's boy. Are you willing that your boy shall pay with his life for the desires of a few large city newspaper owners, and the Standard Oil Co., and big business in general, that the United States gratuitously seek war with Mexico?

Emma's Speech at the Caucus.

In the November American Magazine George Fitch writes, another "Homeburg" sketch, this time about the Homeburg School election. Following is an extract:

"When the Homeburg women first attempted to place a woman on the school board, about fifteen years ago, most of the men objected, and they decided to hold a town caucus and call the women in. There were a great many reasons why a woman shouldn't leave her home and sit around on a school board, and they felt sure that if they were to talk it over frankly in meeting they could show them these reasons. And anyway the chairman would be a man, which would of course take care of the situation.

"So a caucus was called, and the Grand Opera House, which holds six hundred human beings, and about a hundred boys in the front seats, was jammed until it bulged. We knew that no woman could out-argue our seasoned old politicians, and when Calvin Briggs, who has planned all the inside work in the congressional district for twenty years, got up and showed just why woman ought not to intrude, there was an abashed silence all over the house, until Emma Madigan, who is a town character and does just as she pleases got up. She stood up about fifty-nine seconds after Briggs had got a good start, and she argued with him as follows:

"That's all right, Mr. Briggs—You can't make me sit down, Mr. Chairman, you nor any of you politicians. You're a fine man to talk about the schools, Mr. Briggs. No, I won't stop. You know a lot about children, don't you, coming up here with tobacco juice all over your shirt front; and why don't you pay some taxes before you get up here and tell how to run a town? All right, Chairman, I'm done."

"But so was Briggs. We couldn't help laughing at him. Editor Simpson, who runs the Sentinel, stepped into the breach and regretted greatly that so disgraceful an attack had been made upon a well-beloved citizen by a woman. No man would dare make such an attack, he opined. Then Emma got up again. The chairman called her to order, but he might as well have rapped down the rising tide.

"I know mighty well no man 'ud dare say what I did, Lefe Simpson," she shouted. " 'Nd you're the biggest coward of 'em all. If you thought you'd have to lose the school printing, you'd vote for the devil for president of the school board."

"Of course it was perfectly disgraceful, but what could we do Emma was a woman. We couldn't throw her out. We couldn't even get her to listen to parliamentary rules. And the worst of it was, she was telling the truth: That was something no one presumes to tell in local elections. To do it breaks the first commandment of politics; but what do the women, bless 'em, care for our commandments."

THOMAS-BAKER

At 9 o'clock this morning an unusually pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Judge and Mrs. J. A. Baker on East 8th street, the contracting parties being their daughter, Miss Beatrice Baker, and Mr. J. V. Thomas, late of Seminole, Okla. The bride was becomingly attired in olive green charmeuse, trimmed in rich oriental embroidery and lace. She wore a large corsage bouquet of violets.

The Episcopal ring service was read by Rev. Roy E. Early. The bride was given away by her father. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple were driven to the Frisco station and left for Canton, Ga., their future home. The bride was one of the most attractive young ladies of Ada, and is also well and favorably known in Seminole county. At one time she was a member of the faculty of the Mekuskey academy in Seminole county.

The groom is a young man with a promising future as a civil engineer. At one time he was director of the agricultural demonstration and experimental work at Mekuskey academy. Besides a few special Ada friends, the wedding was witnessed by the following out of town guests: Mrs. W. H. Reed, Wewoka, Miss Zoe Taber, Mekuskey, and Mr. Gardner, an uncle of the groom, Mekuskey.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a glass of Salts to flush kidneys if bladder bothers you

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush the kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease. (Adv.)

FOR BETTER WATERWAYS

Washington, D.C., Dec. 3.—If the movement for the development of the nation's waterways is to be advanced through intelligent discussion by men well qualified to speak on the subject, then it is certain to receive a decided impetus from the tenth annual convention of the national rivers and Harbors Congress, which convened in the capital today for a three day's session. The gathering is the largest and most representative ever assembled in this country in the interest of waterway development. Senators, representatives, diplomats, captains of finance and industry, governors of many states and others high in official life were included in the attendance at the formal opening of the convention today.

Heading the list of speakers is President Wilson, who is expected to define for the first time his position on the improvement of the internal waters of the country. Ambassador da Gama of Brazil, John D. Hazen, Canadian minister of marine and fisheries, and Secretary of War Garrison, who recently returned from an official inspection of the Panama canal, are other notables on the list of speakers.

The several sessions of the convention will be presided over by Senator Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana, the president of the congress, Senator Fletcher of Florida and Representatives Burgess of Texas, Small of North Carolina and Moore of Pennsylvania will discuss the several projects for waterways to link the Mississippi and the Atlantic, the Mississippi and the Rio Grande, and the inter-coastal waterway from New England to Florida.

"The Waterways of the Pacific Northwest" are to be described by Senator Jones of Washington. To Congressman Knowland of California and W. B. Thompson, Commissioner of Public Utilities of New Orleans, has been assigned the subject of municipally-owned terminals.

Other speakers will discuss canal projects and river and harbor improvements that are of particular interest to New England, New York, the region of the Great Lakes, the Pacific Coast and other sections of the country.

At the session tomorrow evening John Barrett, director general of the Pan American Union, will deliver an illustrated lecture in description of the South American republics and what they are doing in the way of improving their rivers and harbors.

New York Republicans to Confer.

New York, Dec. 4.—Much interest is manifested in political circles in the conference of Republican State leaders to be held in this city tomorrow. The purpose of the conference is to discuss plans for the reorganization of the Republican members of the Assembly at the coming session in Albany. Senator Elihu Root will make the principal speech at the opening of the conference, and leaders from all over the state will be heard.

If you have rooms to rent, place a want ad in the Evening News.
